How to Support Clients and Drive Business
Through Education

Introduction

We all play a vital role in a homebuyer's journey. Your success is built on trust, and it's our job to provide you with tools and resources to help your clients achieve their dream of homeownership.

Let us partner with you to empower your clients. Whether they're at the starting point of their home exploration, are near-ready, or have been previously declined and seeking direction for preparedness, your expertise can guide a homebuyer's next steps. And, because you establish these trusted relationships, we know faithful clients come back to you for repurchase or to seek advice when facing homeownership challenges.

Making Education Our Shared Mission

Freddie Mac believes in empowering consumers through all stages of their homeownership journey through education. Reaching borrowers in the early stages of home consideration creates a strong foundation of financial awareness and health, a clear understanding of homeownership responsibilities and enablement to make confident, informed decisions. Our ecosystem of future borrowers to current homeowners requires a shared effort in providing the right tools and resources.

Freddie Mac CreditSmart®

CreditSmart is a suite of financial capability and homeownership education resources that offers a mix of learning modules, curricula and courses. These free educational resources are offered through five unique learning pathways, each designed to inform and empower your clients through their homeownership journey.

Lasting benefits include:

- ✓ Development of life-long money management skills.
- ✓ Deepened skills to build, restore and maintain good credit.
- ✓ Understanding of the home purchase process.
- ✓ Insights to successfully manage and sustain home investment.
